Message from the Dean of Students

Dear Colleagues,

Our current Baccalaureate students are the front edge of what is now being called “Generation Z”. These students have never known a time in their lives when they could not carry a computer in their pockets. For those of us who are from the generation when a computer took up an entire room and had less computing power than a current day mobile phone, that is a pretty mind blowing idea. Thanks to the internet and social media, these students are more connected to and often have more in common with their peers in other countries than they are with the generation ahead of them here in Pakistan.

In order to prepare the highly qualified leaders needed here in Pakistan and in the world, we need to continue to provide them with access and training in the latest technology. The newsletter you are reading gives an update of how we are doing that here at FCCU.
